PATRICIA URQUIOLA

In contemporary design and architecture, Milan-based Patricia Urquiola needs no introduction. Light-hearted and poetic yet detail-focused and pragmatic, her approach to materiality and design processes is innovative and playfully adventurous.

Urquiola is committed to exploring the possibilities of –and connections between– craftsmanship, artisanal production and new technologies. Continually researching the use of raw materials and experimenting with processes: Urquiola knows designers can contribute to a better future for both the people and the planet.

She believes that sustainability lies in innovation. The results of this dedicated ethos are imaginative, high-end designs with staying power.

TACTILE TEXTILE: A GRAND GESTURE

Taking inspiration from woven textiles, Patricia Urquiola infused this new collection with the expressive details and invitingly soft qualities of knitwear and woollens. Wanting to depart from the organic lines so abundant in interior design nowadays, Urquiola took further cues from textiles like tweed and bouclé and opted for a decidedly graphic pattern.

Through masterful handling of colours in a gridlike formation, Urquiola has successfully provided the floor tiles with a sense of depth. This striking visual effect gives the floor a soft and textured look—a three-dimensional appearance sure to elevate any space.

The collection comprises twelve different colours, forming a spectrum of neutrals, toned-down shades and accents to choose from. The colours in the collection allow for various mixing and matching and can be installed to create different effects, suiting the diverse spatial needs.

COLLABORATION IN CREATION

A successful collaboration between a designer and manufacturer needs only one thing: the two parties genuinely sharing knowledge, experience, curiosity, and the determination to create a beautiful and unexpected collection. For Urquiola, dialogue and an open exchange of ideas were fundamental in her collaboration with Tarkett.

Exploring, researching and experimenting side by side: Patricia Urquiola and the designers from Tarkett worked together closely to make this technologically advanced collection a reality.

SHARED RESPONSIBILITY

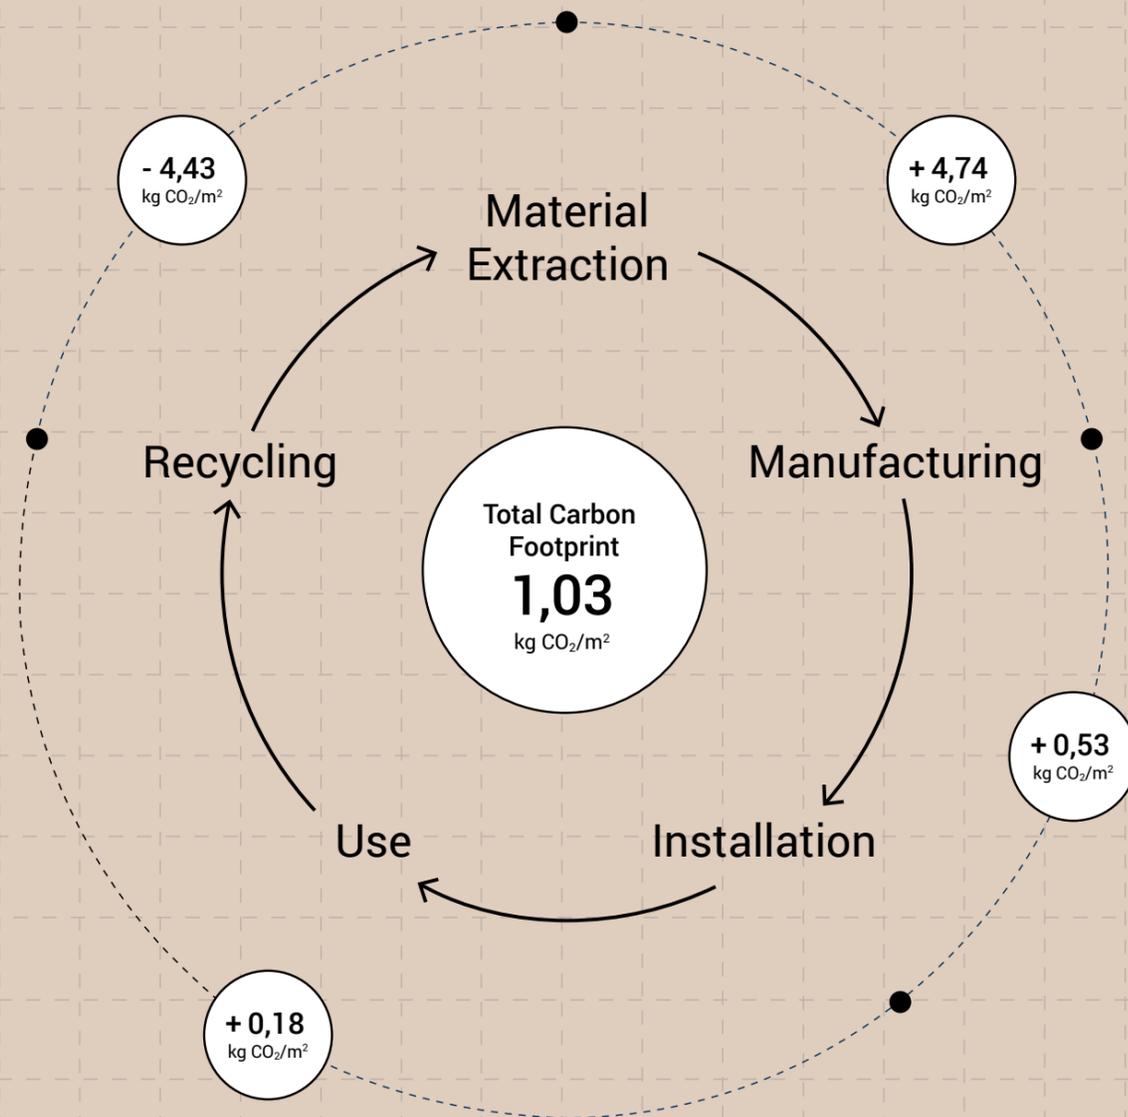

DESSO & PATRICIA URQUIOLA 7843

Tarkett and Urquiola shared a common vision right from the start: to create a carpet tile collection with the lowest possible environmental impact.

At Tarkett, we recognize that we are responsible for the full life cycle of every material we work with. The result: a collection that combines technical expertise with tactility and textural beauty. For new, and renewed, beginnings.

CIRCULAR CARBON FOOTPRINT

Our circular approach to carpet tiles enables us to reduce the emission of greenhouse gases like carbon dioxide, a major contributor to global warming.

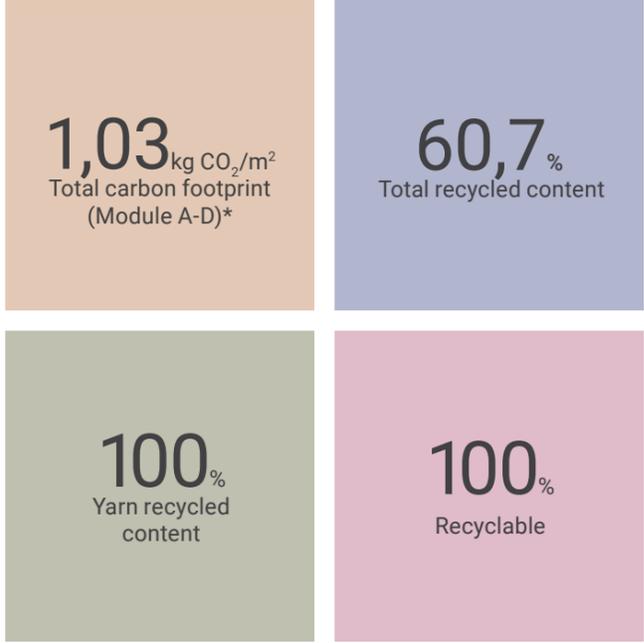

The only carpet tile manufacturer with a closed-loop recycling system, we limit the use of virgin raw materials for new products, and avoid common, carbon-emitting options such as incineration and the landfill at product end-of-life. This closed-loop system ensures that our carpet tiles record an impressively low circular carbon footprint – one we're continually working to shrink even further.
